Speeders can be dealt with

Public awareness and a willingness to act were cited as two major factors in curbing recent speeding problems in the swimming pool area.

With the onset of summer and increased use of the swimming pool in Rotary Park, the Drayton Valley town council and the RCMP have become concerned about traffic problems.

Reporting to council at Thursday's meeting, Councillor Bob Booth referred to a letter received by the town regarding the situation. He said police have tried to control the area but "as soon as they leave someone burns a patch of rubber."

He pointed to a statute whereby citizens would report offending vehicles to the RCMP. "If they can get a description of the car and the licence number they the RCMP can pick them up in a matter of minutes."

"I think the area is already a 30 km/hr area since it is a park area," said town Manager Manny Deol.

He added he has heard reports and seen rubber marks as well.

Booth concluded by saying the situation is not an easy one to solve but with the co-operation of the public at large it can be reduced.

RCMP Corporal Tom Turner said the local detachment is operating more intensive patrols in the area "before it results in anything tragic.

"We are well aware that this is a recurring problem during the spring and summer months."

Turner suggested citizens can contribute to alleviating the problem by copying down the licence number of an offending vehicle as Booth mentioned. However, he stressed the person must be willing to provide testimony and that the procedure is accepted by the courts. "We don't have to be present for violators to be ticketed."

Turner added he would like to discourage people from phoning the RCMP and expecting to reprimand offenders if the complainant is unwilling to assist them in pressing charges.

Taxes increased

There will be a tax increase for Drayton Valley homeowners and businessmen in 1983 as town council brought down a $5,945,476 budget for 1983.

Residences will be taxed an extra 5.1 per cent — a 1.06 mill increase, or $58 a year on a $50,000 home.

Old-fashioned races held

Over 300 people watched the 17th Annual Alder Flats Race Meet held Saturday.

"It was a better turnout than last year," said Lee Miller, one of the organizers of the event.

In past years the race meet was held on the long weekend in May. "We had a lot of trouble keeping the local people around on the long weekend," he explained.

Miller attributed the good turnout this year to the hot weather.

Besides the over 300 people in attendance there were approximately 80 people competing in the races, he said.

In the 3/8-mile 14.2 and under horse race, Diana Playon took first with Lloyd Shaver taking second and Lane Anderson third.

Twenty-five chariots competed in the pony chariot race with Dwayne Harden winning first and Ron Harden taking second.

Warren Olson of Drayton Valley won the mutton bustin' competition. Hosh Worshler and Jessie Seely tied for second. Rodney Clemmer took third place.

In the walk, trot and run race Corby Miller took first in the first heat while Debbie Watson took the second heat.

Lloyd and Jerry Shaver won the cowhide race with Wade Bailey and Kevin Seely taking second.

Frank Hallet of Wainwright ran his chuckwagon into first place while Frank Nash of Drayton Valley and Ken Thirsk took second and third.

The pack horse race was won by Bill Moody with helpers Ray and Bill Gilbert assisting.

Theresa Playon, Cindy Shipton and Kenny Campbell won first, second and third respectively in the ½-mile open.

The day ended with 400 people at the dance.

Provincial grant going to park

By Joe Poirier

A park near Drayton Valley bridge on the North Saskatchewan River will be developed as a park through a provincial grant.

Shirley Cripps, Drayton Valley M.L.A., announced Peter Trynchy, Recreation minister, has agreed to allocate up to $100,000 for capital development of facilities such as camp sites, picnic areas, trails, water supplies and parking areas. Construction of the site should begin within a year with the County of Leduc acting as trustee for the development.

Once the park is completed it will be eligible for annual operating and maintenance grants of up to $20,000.

The site is one of 10 parks to receive funding from the province this year under Recreation and Parks Municipal Recreation Areas Program. The program provides assistance to rural municipalities to help upgrade and develop parks and camping areas.

"Local people will build the site," Cripps said. "Local people will be working to maintain the area too."

Cripps said she received a number of letters and requests from citizens throughout the County of Parkland including those from the County of Leduc to build a recreation site on the river.

"I got a lot of letters on it. People from Drayton Valley, Breton Chamber of Commerce, Carnwood Ladies' Club .. many people. I want down there to take a look with some of the people and it is beautiful. It's gorgeous."

If anyone is interested in becoming involved in the volunteer group they may call Cripps at her office or Chad Nichols in Drayton Valley.

Graduation exercises held at St. Anthony's

Forty-four Grade 9 students at St. Anthony's celebrated the advent of their graduation Friday.

Mass at St. Anthony's Catholic Church started the evening off which was followed by a supper prepared by the parents of the Grade 8 students.

The Grade 8 students were responsible for decorating the gym, said Lucia Garcia, one of the organizers of the graduation.

"They put a lot of work into it."

Danny Feddema and Sandra Lemermeyer shared the task of giving a class historian speech.

"We wanted to let the parents know what the students have been doing in St. Anthony's from Grades 1 to 9," said Garcia.

The graduating class consisted of Debbie Adler, Allan Baker, Kelly Balderson, Randy Bauman, Richard Benoit, Sherry Blais, Susan Benke, Shelly Curran, Anne-Marie Dolman, Scott Doran, Dannie Feddema, Billie-Jo Gebhardt, Mike Haack, Randy Hanson, Dwain Hansherr, Barb Horne, Kelly Hutchinson, Lara Hutchinson, Robert Jackson, Clint Jansen, Shawn Johannesen, Tracey Kallis, Liane Kwiatkowsky, Jodi Kynoch, Dwayne Lambert, Leanne Lastiwka, Sandra Lemermeyer, Charlotte Macleod, John Manning, Beverly Nienaber, Leni Perin, Darren Pinkoski, Allison Pohling, Bridget Pudde, Robin Regenwetter, Steve Smithnaky, Robert Sullivan, Lora Tainsh, Dagmar Unger, Marvanne Unger, Ernie Varga, Jaymie Vowk, Darcy Wirch and Linda Zittlau.

Tax increase

Commercial and industrial businesses will see their mill rate rise by 8.9 per cent. This is an increase of 2.29 mills which would mean an increase of $458 over last year on a $200,000 assessment.

While municipal taxes were held to a 0 per cent increase, town council was faced with increases in the "uncontrollable" portion of the budget. These "uncontrollables" are requisitioned from the town by such bodies as the separate and public school boards and the hospital board. These boards set their own budget requirements and incorporate them into the town tax rolls through requisitions.

The town council approved expenditures of $4,501,845 for the coming year which was the same as last year. The increase resulted from additional demands from the public school board for an extra 5.6 per cent, the separate school board for an extra 9.2 per cent and the Drayton Valley General Hospital for an extra 104.6 per cent.

While such bodies as the provincial planning fund and the Meridian Foundation cut their demands by 19 per cent and 35 per cent respectively, the total of the two budgets came to only $31,000.

4-H Beef Achievement show held

"These are tough classes to judge. There's a lot of achievement here."

Beef Judge Evan Roberts summed the 4-H Beef Show up with that comment after judging the Lobstick, Two Rivers, Tomahawk and Drayton Valley Beef Clubs Monday.

Grooming and showmanship Judge Gordon Fuhr added "These are all winners here today." Later he singled out the Drayton Valley Beef Club for "a fantastic job of growing."

The stands were crowded at the show and beef sale held at the Haderer and Pedersen Ranch in Easyford.

The grand champion winner was Darcy Kohut of Tomahawk and Showmanship in the junior division was won by Jack Worden and Dean MacLeod. In the senior division Bruce Ennis and Stephen Riley took the prize.

Grooming was won by Stephen Riley and Jack Worden.

Kindergarten space still available

Drayton Valley kindergarten classes are experiencing mixed responses from residents for fall registration.

Drayton Valley Community Kindergarten has never had a better response while St. Anthony's kindergarten or Early Childhood School has had a slow response for their registration.

"Classes are filled up," Marlene Pasula, Community Kindergarten co-ordinator, said. "The response is over last year's; very much so. We've filled all four classes but we are still accepting more."

"If need be we will raise class limits to accommodate the children. We have more than 100 and for the first time both morning and afternoon classes are filled."

Class enrolment of the St. Anthony's program does not reflect the same results.

"It's pretty slow," Diane Perdue said. "It was not slow last year and we had 30 at the end of April."

Perdue said the differences between the two organizations are few except the St. Anthony's school offers a religious component within their class and the classes are more structured toward grade school.

Both kindergarten classes accept children five years old as of March 1 and both organizations will be open to registrations until September. Both programs run from September to May.

There are similar classes in Buck Creek, Lodgepole and Easyford organized in close conjunction with the Community Kindergarten class.

For more information on registering children with either class operation call the respective teachers at their schools.

Line-up for Anglican sale

Even before the doors were open, people were lining up at the Drayton Valley Curling Rink Saturday morning to peruse the selection of wares on sale by All Saints Anglican Church.

"Just about everything there was sold," said Don DeGeer, spokesman.

Well in excess of $1,000 was taken in from the sale of donated items at the garage sale. What was not sold was donated to the Beehive Workshop, he said.

Some of the items on sale included furniture, appliances, kitchen ware, clothing and sports equipment, he said.

The biggest items were a cabinet stereo and television and a snowmobile which sold for $125, he added.

Marianne Dallagren and Marg Pollard inspect a set of curtains at the sale.

Opinions

Hire a student good for everyone

Now is the time for those businesses and even homeowners to catch up on some of that unskilled work they've been putting off — and the price is right.

University students have been out for over a month and technical school students are coming out soon with the high school students not far behind them.

The Hire-A-Student office is now open at the town office and for minimum wage you can get yourself all the manpower you want. Jobs are scarce this year and it's a good time to take advantage of a large labor pool.

Remember when you couldn't get anyone to paint the fence around your yard or clean up the back lot?

Times have changed and they're out there now.

It's a good way to have a look for prospective employees for more skilled positions. If someone is going to do a responsible job on a "catch all" task then he or she might be someone you would want around full-time after they graduate.

In the long run you'll be doing yourself and the student a favor. They'll be making money toward their education and receiving experience in what for the younger ones will be their first job. It's something everyone has to go through and now is a good time to offer that opportunity to a young person.

"No dear! Grandpa did not call them drugstore cowboys because they need lots of bandaids"

Summer finally shows up

A couple of weeks ago you probably could have made a fair bit of money by betting against summer showing up.

After the past weekend it was easy to see most folks enjoyed themselves. You only had to look around a restaurant to see people lifting their shirt or blouse collars off a sunburned neck.

But you really know summer's coming when there's talk of beer strikes.

Here we are and it's four down and one to go with the brewery workers' unions. And there's cause for optimism that the fifth one will sign soon to guarantee a "wet" summer.

Editor's Notes

With all the sayings on T-shirts, bumper stickers, hats and even disposable lighters it isn't often you come across something which stands out. On the weekend I took a course on cardio-pulmonary resuscitation from Alan Dick, who is also a teacher at the high school. The second day he showed up wearing a T-shirt with "If you can read this thank a teacher". Let's hear it for the teachers.

Games continue

Hospital user fees are once more being tossed around and Alberta Hospitals minister Dave Russell is continuing to play games.

Federal Health minister is no novice either and her threats to take the province to court over the moves seem to be part of the two players' grand design.

The loser in the long run will be the public. Caught between the two administrative bodies is the little guy.

Although the level of fees are not set at high levels — $20 a day up to a maximum of $150 for individuals and $300 for families — they contradict and offend the agreement with the federal government.

Most people should be able to afford the added charges, but we shouldn't have to pay them. The provincial government is given $20 million each month toward our medicare system and to ask us to spend even more on it indicates poor management on the part of the provincial government.

To make matters worse he's attempting to fog the issue by laying the implementation of the policy at the doorstep of the local hospital boards. What he's trying to do is have his cake and eat it too — if only one board chooses not to go with the new fees then he's homefree to hide behind a system that cannot be dealt with as universal.

It's a cute trick but the final cards have not even come close to being played. In the meantime the losers are the citizens who elected the perpetrators of the system.

Computer competition tests students skill

Over 30 students from as far away as Lethbridge and Peace River participated in the Second Annual Alberta Society for Computer in Education (ASCE) competition Saturday at H.W. Pickup Junior High School.

The competition was divided into three categories, said Pat Kielbasch, member of ASCE and Grade 7-8 teacher at H.W. Pickup.

Each of the categories required multiple choice exams and actual computer programs to test the competitors on their knowledge of computer programming and literacy as well as their programming ability, she said.

Competitors were given a percentage on the multiple choice exam; when judging the programs written they were given a star rating and then compared as a group.

Rodney Ohlhauser from Landsdowne Elementary School in Edmonton won first place in the elementary division and Carl Low from Drayton Valley received second place.

In the junior high division, Glen Reesor of Camrose won first place with Ward Wagar taking second and Ricky Day of Drayton Valley winning third.

Steve Bougerolle from the Lethbridge Collegiate Institute won first place in the high school division. Royce Howland from Camrose Composite High School took second and Eric Giguere from Glen Mary High School in Peace River took third.

Prizes given to the first place winner in the high school division were an Apple IIe computer with disk drive and monitor to be given to the school while the winner took home a Commodore 64 with disk drive, monitor and desk. Second place won Heath Kit learning program and third $100 in cash.

Prizes for the junior high division included a Timex/Sinclair computer for first and a clock for second.

First place winner in the elementary division won a clock.

Adult entrants were required to pay a $3 fee to get their fish weighed and qualify for the prizes available. The registration fee for children was $1.

The biggest fish was caught by Gary Nickolyuk at five pounds.

The biggest fish in the junior division (12 years old and under) was caught by Darrel Shane Gates. The fish weighed one pound, 14½ ounces.

Other prizes were the hidden weight, a prize for a fish caught other than pike.

Decision on Lodgepole delayed

By Jack Merrison

With the advent of a decision on the possible closure of Lodgepole School three organizations, one from Drayton Valley and two from Lodgepole, made presentations to the Parkland County School Board Tuesday.

A decision was to have been made at the meeting but "as we looked at the logistics of all three groups we decided in all fairness to wait for a period of time to evaluate the proposals," said Dr. Leroy Sloan, assistant superintendent area one (acting).

According to school board policy they must make a decision one month before the beginning of the next school term.

"We have time to delay it one month and check out the information presented," he said.

The three delegations consisted of the Calvary Baptist Church, Keep Open Lodgepole School Committee (KOLC) and the Lodgepole Recreation Association.

The Calvary Baptist Church of Drayton Valley has fully supported the idea of starting a Christian Education School in the Drayton Valley area, said Tim Melnychuk, chairman of the board and a Grade 4 teacher at Elementary B.

"We see Lodgepole as the most positive facility available," he said.

The concept of the school would be to a totally Canadian content with an interdenominational scriptual viewpoint. The school would be open to any parents subject to financial and educational requirements.

In their written proposal, prepared by Brian Kyler, the organization proposed the possible use of the county bus system to transport students to a central location to then be transported to Lodgepole.

Would this not pose a "terribly long bus ride for some students?" asked Rianne Kulak, trustee for Stony Plain.

"Parents interested in the school are aware of that," said Melnychuk.

In order to establish a Christian education school a separate school board would have to be organized.

"Wouldn't this be like cutting our own throat, taking students away?" asked Maurice McCullagh, vice-chairman.

"You were the ones saying you were closing the school," said Reverend Wes Long.

The decision delay poses a problem for the organization. "Lack of time negates this fall for start-up," said Melnychuk in a later interview.

The KOLC delegation, headed by Andy Pludek, president, proposed transforming the school into a partial hostel facility.

"By opening up a hostel extra things would have to be done," said Pludek.

The cost of converting the school would be $120,000 to $150,000. Adult showers, changing rooms and a kitchen would have to be built, he added.

The basis of the proposal was an added source of income to subsidize the losses incurred by the school board so the present and future classes could be conducted in Lodgepole.

The facility would not be a first class hotel, commented Pludek. It would not be changed so it could function as a school should the economic climate in Lodgepole change, he added.

The funding for the changes proposed would come through the Federal Provincially funded NEEDS program, he said.

In the written proposal supplied to the school board KOLC supplied letters of possible support from the Canadian Hostelling Association and the Boy Scouts of Canada.

The last proposal made was by the Lodgepole Recreation Association.

"If none of these proposals go through we want something to keep the school open," said Grant Wiltse.

In their presentation the association indicated they would lease the building to maintain the kindergarten and use the facility to hold recreational events. The only catch of the proposal was that the association would receive a matching $1,500 grant as long as there was no school operating.

Expensive lesson shared by resident

If he had known at the time a simple, inexpensive check valve would have saved Lawrence Lathe a considerable amount of money.

"It cost me a lot to do a little learning," he said.

Nov. 1, 1981 Lathe was flooded out of his trailer parked in the Poplar Ridge Trailer Court when the main sewer line plugged off and backed up into his trailer.

In an attempt to recover all of the damage, Lathe hired a lawyer and decided to take his landlord, Bohdan Urchyshyn, to court.

After almost two and a half years because of lawyer and financial problems he took his case to small claims court in Drayton Valley.

In court Thursday, Lathe learned it is the responsibility of the tenant to install a check valve when hooking up a sewer line.

Drayton Valley Oilers apply for MCR grant

D.V. Oilers baseball club have applied for part of the town's remaining multi-culture and recreation grant to plant sod in the infield of the Lions Park baseball diamond.

The recreation department will consider the application if the town does not build a new pool.

The recreation department is considering the proposal under the community users grant available for all clubs and organizations that meet requirements for the grant monies.

Many of the clubs and organizations in Drayton Valley have received letters from the recreation department regarding the grant but if there are more interested associations they may contact the recreation department. June 8 is the deadline for application.

June 8 is also the date of the next recreation board meeting held at 7 p.m. in the town office downstairs.

Recreation board has formed a committee to assess what demands and needs there are of the youth in Drayton Valley.

The committee will be made up of four members of the recreation board: Larry Poffenroth, recreation board chairman; Dennis Woolsey, director of parks, recreation and culture; Mary Tourneur and Marti McKinley.

Ceasars win their first game

Drayton Valley Ceasars senior soccer team has won their first game in the Central Alberta Rural Towns Soccer League. The men shut out Mayerthorpe 2-0 at Lions Park Sunday.

Rod Bealer scored early in the first half, blasting a low drive in the far side from his left wing position.

Ceasars missed a multitude of opportunities to put the game away early, then watched Mayerthorpe gain composure and control the game at times in the second half.

Simon Kelly protected the Ceasars' goal and stopped Mayerthorpe's Barry Joines on a point-blank drive.

Andy Kelly provided a lethal striking force for the home team that kept the visitors guessing.

Joe Poirier scored the final goal of the game off his head during a scramble in front of the Mayerthorpe net.

Steve Green provided the speed the team needed when he was called upon.

Ceasars play their next game against Hinton at Lions Park Sunday at 2 p.m.

After the Ceasars' first win they will prepare to take on the newest edition to the CARTSL.

Hinton will play their first game against Ceasars in Drayton Valley Sunday.

"I'm really happy with the expansion," Simon Kelly, league president, said. "Any league expansion is good for us.

"We wanted them into the league from the start but the hardest thing was fitting them into the schedule."

LIVESTOCK
Alberta's Major Renewable Resource
GOING GOING GONE

Prime Minister Trudeau has said that western livestock producers lost out in Bill C-155, the Crow Legislation presently before Parliament, because they couldn't deliver the votes he wants and "they didn't shout loud enough."

Bill C-155 provides an annual subsidy of $651.6 million to be paid exclusively and directly to the railways.

Bill C-155, at the present time, allows a subsidy to be paid only on grain destined for the export market. This legislation effectively reduces the "freedom of choice' that farmers might have enjoyed and certainly discourages economic diversification.

Bill C 155 drastically curtails availability of feed grains for dom stic consumption and it ensures that Alberta grain prices will be artificially increased by $35.00 per tonne by 1990.

Bill C-155 forces the western livestock producer to pay:
1) fair market value for the grain PLUS
2) the level of the subsidy paid to the railway.
This forces livestock producers who must make use of the domestic market to compete with and match the government subsidy.

Bill C-155 will cause a drastic reduction in livestock feeding in Alberta. As well as slashing farm incomes the Bill puts thousands of jobs in the livestock sector (veterinary, pharmaceutical, feed grain/supplements, farm machinery, meat packers, marketing agencies, publishing firms, trucking firms, etc.) – in jeopardy.

Bill C-155 will cost by 1990:
1) Alberta cowlcalf operators $50 million plus the loss of the Alberta market for feeder cattle. Cowlcalf operators will lose the $22 per head cost of shipping to export markets.
2) Alberta Feedlot Operators – $320 million
3) Alberta's Economy – $1.5 billion in lost economic activity.

Bill C-155 will force the Alberta government, if it wishes to save the Alberta livestock industry, into a position of establishing costly offsetting programmes.

Feel like shouting?

Parkland taxes take a jump of 11.5 per cent

By Jay Fisher

Parkland County residents with an average $10,000 assessment face a $60 increase in taxes for 1983, solely on the basis of a six-mill jump in school supplementary requisitions.

Councillors voted recently to accept the 1983 municipal and school budgets, which total $29,415,237 and $41,439,192, respectively.

Municipal taxes will not increase in 1983 as predicted by Reeve Les Miller months ago. However, an 11.5 per cent increase in school taxes will be levied.

Total mill rates for the Stony Plain Hospital District in 1983 are 118 for residential, 130 for farm land and 177.5 for commercial and industrial.

County residents living in the Drayton Valley Hospital District will face additional increases (mill rates of 117, 134 and 181.5 for residential, farm and commercial property, respectively) due to a four-mill requistion for the new hospital.

The extra levy means an extra $40 on an average $10,000 assessment.

School board debt servicing was the major culprit in hiking school taxes, as the board expects to pay $8.68 million in 1983 compared to $6.77 million.

All areas of the school board's spending, excluding special education, will see an increase this year.

Early childhood services will cost $995,510, (up from $459,563) elementary schools will cost $11,078,190 ($10,498,738), junior highs will cost $4,537,075 ($4,373,986), senior highs will cost $5,539,050 ($5,224,659), special education will cost $646,009, ($1,279,939) and community services will cost $156,180 ($93,860 in 1982).

Transportation costs are expected to rise from $2.8 million to about $3.03 million. Operation and maintenance of schools is predicted to jump from about $4.6 million to $5.01 million.

A $16,404 surplus is predicted for the year. However, nowhere in the budget are teacher salary increases included.

Any increases granted will result in a deficit. Talks between the bargaining units representing Parkland County and over 1,000 teachers from the region are currently in mediation.

In addition, the school board requested and received county council approval of a five-year loan for $225,000 to purchase furniture and capital equipment.

The board took out a similar loan last year for $350,000.

On the municipal side, salary negotiations with about 100 employees are also not yet settled, but a $420,000 transfer to reserve has been set aside to accommodate any increases, Administrator Otto Schuster explained Thursday.

Municipal estimates show revenue from tax penalties is expected to leap from about $407,000 in 1982 to $650,000 for 1983.

Interest generated on several accounts, some premiums, royalties and dividends are expected to stay the same as the actual 1982 level, although some provincial grants are expected to decrease.

About $600,000 in road grader purchases was cut from the budget, Schuster said, as well as a number of other smaller items.

Tax notices were being run late last week as soon as council approved the budgets and mill rates.

Notices will be mailed out in the next few weeks, approximately one month earlier than last year.

The most recent monthly statement given to councillors shows the county with an overdraft of $9,422,546.

Past president of the Parkland Rural Residents' Association Lorne Proudfoot said recently the budgets may appear realistic, but are not giving a true picture of the situation.

Quiet lounge creates one less storage room

Keith Greenhaugh stands in one of the Westwind's old storage rooms.

A number of significant changes have occurred at the Westwind Motor Inn recently.

An infrequently used banquet hall was transformed into a thriving night club and tavern called Rodeo City Saloon. Out of a storage room a plush, quiet bar was created and a dining room that did not attract many diners was turned into a thriving restaurant.

All of the changes were made by Keith Greenhaugh, owner/manager of the Westwind Motor Inn.

The Inn now has a total of 905 licenced seats. "For the size of a town like Drayton Valley it is uncommon to see that many seats," said Greenhaugh.

Not only does the hotel have a large number of licenced seats but the unprofitable dining room which was transformed into the largest Smitty's Pancake House in Canada, he added.

"We're involved with a Smitty's in St. Albert and it has worked out good there.

"Nowadays it seems everyone is in a hurry. Smitty's is a fast food operation and gets people in and out."

The concept behind the Rodeo City Saloon is simple, explained Greenhaugh. "People come to have fun and enjoy themselves."

The room features the best country and western bands available in Alberta. But recently he has added a new wrinkle to the concept of country and western entertainment. At a cost of $6,000 a day Greenhaugh has imported two famous country and western singers from Nashville.

People have to go to Edmonton to see singers like Moe Bandy and Gene Watson. Not only is this a first for Drayton Valley but it is the first time these two artists have come to a town this size.

Unlike the shows in Edmonton where customers only get to see one show, people spending the $35 to see Bandy and Watson will be able to stay and see both sets, he said.

The only time there is a cover charge is when top bands are brought in, he added.

"I don't believe in cover charges. Customers get a bad feeling about the place when they have to pay for a product they have not received."

Big, comfortable pieces of furniture inhabit the old storage room which was turned into K.G's Quiet Lounge.

Some people like to sit and have a drink in a pleasant quiet atmosphere, he said, explaining the reasoning behind the new lounge.

Student looks forward to career

Blair Gordon is a Grade 12 student.

By Joe Poirier

Electricity is an important part of today's lifestyle and Blair Gordon wants to make electronics a career.

Gordon, 20, is a Grade 12 student at Frank Maddock High School. His ambition to be an electrician after he graduates from the Northern Alberta Institute of Technology, has led to a work experience program with Tri-Electric.

"It involves 150 hours and I worked under a person and did the odd jobs," Gordon said. "I know the odd stuff and I learned a lot there too. I got to meet new people and try new things."

Gordon says many of the students in the school say the same good things about their work experience and that the program is one of the most popular.

The course is almost as popular as the school's principal, Ritchie Woods.

"He's about the best principal we've had."

Gordon enjoys english and art as subjects within his schedule and says they'll help him in his search for a career.

One of his most interesting subjects is law because of the information he learns and a trip the class took to the provincial court and to Edmonton to the Queen's Bench.

Gordon spends his spare time with his dad and helping around the house and having fun with his friends. His family lives on an acreage 10 miles north of Drayton Valley and tends to seven cows, his two dogs and a cat.

"I used to play hockey with the Trojans for quite a few years. I also used to work for Braidnor to help get money for college."

Highland dance competition held

Over 200 competitors from all over Alberta participated in the Second Annual Open Highland Dance competition held in Drayton Valley Saturday.

A total of 68 events were held in the day-long affair.

Shannon Bredin of Drayton Valley walked away from the competition with two trophies and a raft of first place medals.

Bredin, in the advanced intermediate nine years and younger, took first in the Flint, Strathspey and half Tulloch and the Sailors Hornpipe. She also took first place and the trophy in the advanced intermediate Flora.

Other Drayton Valley winners were Patricia Anderson who placed second in the Lilt and Rhonda Carpenter who placed third.

In the advanced intermediate class 18 years and older Terry Sutherland placed second in the fling and third in both the Strathspey and half Tulloch and the Sailors Hornpipe. Leann Hook tied for fourth place in the Strathspey and half Tulloch.

Dress in Highland dancing is quite important, said Dale Bredin, organiser of the competition. Costume judging is not a normal event, he said, adding it hasn't been done for a couple of years.

"We figured this year we would surprise everyone and drop it on them."

Shanna Forrester of Edmonton won the trophy for the best dressed dancer.

The opening ceremony was held at noon with the 700 Wing Pipes and drums from Edmonton piping everyone in.

Juding the contestants on a variety of items such as deportment, style, precision of step and position of feet on the floor were Betty Klepp from Saskatoon and Barbara Hays from Edmonton.

The judging of dancers is conducted under the rules of the Scotland Official Board of Highland Dancing, said Bredin.

The board was founded to ensure continuity of official forms and ensure dancers from all over the world may compete on equal terms.

The competition was divided into age and experience catagories so competitors would be equally matched, he said.

Most of the dancers are young because the dances performed are a form of strenuous competition, he noted.

Throughout the years the Legion branches have sponsored the Remembrance Day essay contest, open to students.

In Alder Flats winners in the various age groups read their winning essays or poems during the Remembrance Day service held in the school auditorium Nov. 11.

Two Alder Flats Grade 10 students, Kathy Schwengler and Sheila Borle, winners here in the branch level, had their compositions place first in the zone level. This level takes in 13 branches. The girls were presented with cheques April 14, as well as certificates and Remembrance Day Legion crests by Zone Commander Hugh Forsythe of Wetaskiwin and Clare Parker, president of the local 287 branch.

Annual air band competition attracts large crowds at lunch.

Rockers roll at high school

By Joe Pakrier

Students and teachers alike turned out to view an unusual form of entertainment at Frank Maddock High School.

The annual air band contest attracted 200 people during two lunch hours each day of the two-day event.

Although the students merely pretended to play instruments and pretended to play lead vocalist while a recording blared in the background, the event kept the audience's attention.

The costumes and the acts were outrageously entertaining and the students had no trouble miming their favorite rock star.

All groups were carefully screened by the teachers and a written report of what props were to be used were submitted.

About 10 students organized the show while a teacher and two other students judged them.

The acts were judged on originality, costume, performance and appeal. The students didn't let the judges down. An obvious amount of effort went into the productions.

The students said the set construction took a couple of days to get together but three hours to rehearse and 'polish.'

Almost everyone involved with the show wanted to reflect good entertainment and hard work rather than offer a poor excuse for the school to be held up to public mockery.

One act provided a goulish performance while others performed with one "instrument" during hard rock music.

Alice Cooper and Mick Jagger would have been proud.

Seniors assistance organized

Some 33,000 Alberta seniors will receive applications for renter assistance in the mail soon, Julian Kosiak, Alberta Municipal Affairs minister, announced recently.

Applications were mailed last week to many senior citizens who received assistance last year. Forms for first-time applicants are available at Treasury Branches, seniors' lodges and apartments, municipal offices and directly from Alberta Municipal Affairs Grants and Subsidies Branch.

Seniors will notice an increase in the amount of their assistance. The minister noted Alberta seniors will receive a $9 million increase in grants this year which brings the total cost of the program up to $42.6 million.

Seniors renting non-subsidized housing will receive a $1,200 grant compared to $1,000 last year. Renters living in subsidized lodges or self-contained apartments will receive $600, a $100 increase. Mobile home owners renting land for their home qualify for $1,000, which is $400 more than last year's grant.

To qualify for the grants, applicants must be 65 or older. Widow or widower renters between 60 and 64 years are also eligible if their spouse was 65 or older an eligible at the time of death

Widows or widowers aged 55 to 64 who qualify for the new Alberta Widows' Pension Program are automatically eligible. Married couples may make one application. All applicants must have rented accommodation in Alberta for at least 120 days during the year of application.

Individuals living in active treatment hospitals, auxiliary hospitals or in nursing homes and mobile home owners receiving a property tax reduction do not qualify for assistance.

Water reservoir topic results in meeting

By Kiply Lukas Yaworski

A public information meeting about a proposed 200,000-gallon water reservoir for this community attracted about 25 residents Tuesday to the Breton Community Centre.

The meeting was called after village council received a petition signed by 46 people opposed to construction of the reservoir north of Breton.

Residents at the meeting Tuesday questioned the size of the project, the cost, and whether it is a priority for the community.

The petition's numbers are not sufficient to force a plebiscite on the question, but Mayor Colleen Lee told the meeting a plebiscite has not necessarily been ruled out.

Tuesday's meeting was the second to be held about the proposed reservoir system. At the first meeting, held this winter, about 80 residents in attendance indicated support for the project.

On the basis of that support, village council proceeded with the project, spending a preliminary $49,413 for digging a well, legal fees and survey fees.

The total project cost for construction of an underground concrete reservoir, pumps, the well and a line into town is estimated at $489,000, a consultant from the engineering firm the village hired for the project told Tuesday's meeting.

Of that amount, the community is responsible for $325 per capita, and then 10 per cent of cost above that, as part of Alberta Environment's grant structure. The portion of the project paid for by a provincial government grant will total $273,000, leaving the village to pay $216,000, the consultant explained.

With a 20-year debenture, that amount would cost each of 336 water services in the village $7.72 a month on top of their present monthly water rate of $8.50 for a total of $14.22 a month.

The increase in monthly charge would be about $2.72 less for construction of well and line alone—a $140,000 alternative which the community would have to pay for entirely, since it would not qualify for the provincial grant.

Water storage is the community's problem—not the quality or quantity of available water, said Mayor Lee, pointing out Breton is blessed with an abundant supply of good water. Getting the water from the ground and storing it for times of greatest need is the problem.

A recent letter to village council from Alberta Environment highlights some of the government's concerns about water storage in Breton.

The village is currently using an average of about 88 gallons per capita per day, or a daily total of 49,000 gallons, according to the letter read by Mayor Lee.

Alberta Environment recommends a minimum storage amount equal to at least two days, to provide a buffer supply in the event of a pump breakdown or a power interruption. However, Breton's current storage capacity (the water tower) is only 42,000 gallons—less than one day's consumption, the letter pointed out.

A community requires adequate storage to handle water use fluctuations throughout the day and throughout the seasons, noted the engineer. The strain on the tower's supply at meal times or during the lawn watering season can leave it near empty—and if a fire were to happen at the same time, it could leave the community short of water, he said.

Insurance underwriters who determine a community's class for fire insurance rates take into consideration water supply. For a community Breton's size, the recommended fire pump capacity is between 1,000 and 2,000 gallons per minute, the consultant reported.

The fire pump to be installed with the Breton reservoir project would have a capacity for pumping up to 1,200 gallons per minute from the water reservoir's stored supply, into the line.

In deeming the new reservoir necessary, the village council also considered the advanced age of the present 23-year-old system.

The reservoir would permit the community to prepare for growth before it happens and not after the fact, said Mayor Lee, pointing out a project such as the water reservoir takes about two years to complete.

A line from the proposed reservoir site into the community would supply highway-commercial lots proposed in the Breton north area, she said.

Once the lots have access to a water supply, they will be attractive to businesses which will be natural spin-offs to the upcoming Genesee Power Project, she said.

Residents attending the meeting suggested the water supply should be put in after the development arrives. Mayor Lee questioned what would attract the developers if there were no serviced lots available.

Highway-commercial or industrial land uses would not be able to locate on downtown property because of building regulations, the meeting was informed.

Drinking taboo in the parks

As a result of an investigation into the attempted theft of gasoline, two Drayton Valley residents were arrested and charged with break and enter, possession of stolen property and theft of gasoline under $200.

On May 27 Drayton Valley RCMP received a report of a break and entry and theft from the Westwind Motor Inn.

Suspects had entered a lounge and stole a stereo receiver, a large quantity of liquor and a variety of other items, said Corporal Chris Lee, RCMP spokesman.

During the evening of May 29 the RCMP received a complaint two people were seen attempting to steal gasoline from a vehicle in front of a residence.

Successful investigation of the complaint led to the arrest of Donald Fredrick Hunt and Deborah Lynn Laze, said Lee.

Both will be appearing in Drayton Valley Provincial Court Thursday to enter pleas.

Hunt remains in custody until his court

Some of the property was recovered, said Lee.

Enjoying a glass of wine or a bottle of beer in a public park could cost the consumer $150.

As a result of a rising public concern about people consuming alcohol in public parks, Drayton Valley RCMP are planning on increasing both foot and vehicle patrol in the parks, said RCMP spokesman Corporal Chris Lee.

Anyone found consuming liquor will be charged accordingly, he said.

Under the Liquor Control Act the voluntary fine for such an offence is $150.

Grade 3 students learn about visual arts

By Jack Morrison

Camera shutters opened and closed over 100 times Tuesday as a Grade 3 class from Eldorado Elementary received a first hand experience taking pictures.

The unofficial enrichment program run by Ihor Shykora, visual arts instructor at H.W. Pickup, gives students exposure to technical and industrial education which is not normally offered at that grade level.

"We are giving them a sampling of what they are going to experience in high school," said Shykora.

The students in Dianna Labossiere's class headed out to the Kynoch property where there were a number of old buildings and some old farm equipment lying about. Each student was allowed four pictures. From the four, the student will pick one negative. With that negative they will go through the complete darkroom procedure of printing a black and white picture, he said.

Each student will then bleach their 8x10 print and sepia tone it. The finished product will be mounted on cardboard and framed in a stressed frame, he added.

The whole process teaches the student how to operate a 35 mm camera, an enlarger and the technical printing process, said Shykora.

"The finished product will preserve some of the local heritage," he said.

Besides learning how to operate a camera, the students have done photograms (placing an object on a piece of photographic paper and exposing it to light). Each has printed a T-shirt.

The Grade 3 students have also printed a mirror with enamel and made self-adhesive vinyl stickers. The stickers measure about a foot square and are printed with the international symbols of safety.

Anti-semitism condemned in legislature

By Geoff White and Sheila Pratt

The growing controversy over anti-Semitism in the province came to a head with Premier Peter Lougheed's formal statement in the legislature condemning the teachings of Eckville teacher Jim Keegstra fired for propounding his theories of an international Jewish conspiracy.

Under mounting pressure from religious leaders and concerned citizens, Lougheed finally broke a month of silence on the storm and called for a public education campaign and more tolerance from all Albertans to fight bigotry and racism.

Lougheed said he was "deeply disturbed" by Keegstra's teachings which were "clearly racially and religiously prejudiced." Although the problem of anti-Semitism is serious, there's no evidence racism and bigotry are on the rise in Alberta, Lougheed said.

Lougheed made no mention in his speech of Tory backbencher Stephen Stiles whose comments doubling the extent of the mass murder of the Jews in World War II angered Jewish community leaders and opposition members in the legislature. Nor did Lougheed make any comment on the recent expulsion of Keegstra and two other members of the Alberta branch of the federal Social Credit Party for their anti-Semitic views.

Lougheed said he did not comment on Stiles because that incident was adequately handled by Stiles' apology and the government's formal dissociation from Stiles' views. Lougheed stood by his decision not to expel Stiles from the caucus.

Lougheed's statement came a day after world renowned Nazi hunter Simon Wiesenthal sent a telegram to the premier deploring the Keegstra incident and a few days after meetings with Edmonton and Calgary Jewish community leaders.

The incident attracted attention across the country and in the United States. Multicultural Minister Jim Flemming said in Ottawa the Keegstra and Stiles' comments are particularly alarming because both men are in positions of authority.

Jewish community leaders said they were gratified by Lougheed's statement and said it reflected the kind of moral leadership expected from the premier. New Democrat Ray Martin welcomed the statement but questioned why it took the premier a month to make it. Martin also called on Lougheed to follow up his "fine sentiments" with actions including the expulsion of Stiles from the caucus, just as former Tory MLA Tom Sindlinger was expelled for disagreeing with government policy on the constitution.

Keegstra, who said Lougheed's plea for racial tolerance was unnecessary and prompted by outside agitators, was involved in a bitter battle to save his job as mayor of Eckville. The Eckville Chamber of Commerce and two councillors asked Keegstra to resign but he survived the vote with a 4-2 majority.

Meanwhile, the question of whether Keegstra will be allowed to keep his teaching certificate is unsettled.

Herb garden provides many uses

By Betty Vladicka

Herbs can be grown for their decorative value, their fragrance or their culinary uses, and the location of a herb garden will depend upon the types of herbs to be grown.

It can form a part of the vegetable garden or it can occupy a conspicuous spot in the landscape. But, regardless of the purpose for which the herbs are being grown, their environmental requirements must be considered.

A herb garden should be located in a protected area which is fully exposed to sunlight, and preferably in a well-drained, sandy loam soil. A high fertility soil is not necessary for herbs. In fact, most herbs produce more of the aromatic oils essential for flavor and fragrance when they are grown in a low fertility soil.

Most common herbs are easily propagated by cuttings, division or seed. Stem cuttings of seven to 10 cm, which have been taken from new growth, can be rooted in sand or vermiculite.

Herbs that must be propagated in this manner include lavender, rosemary and thyme. Tarragon and chives are propagated by division of the crown and bulbs, respectively. Garlic is planted annually [illegible].

The annuals and biennials are generally sown directly in the garden and they include anise, sweet basil, borage, catnip, chervil, dill, fennel, sweet marjoram, parsley, sage and summer savory. They should be planted at a depth of at least twice the diameter of their seed in a deep, fine seedbed.

Herb gardens are relatively easy to maintain. Spraying is generally not necessary because very few herbs are subject to any serious insect or disease problems and any cultivation beyond weeding should be kept to a minimum to avoid damaging their root systems. Perennials that are to be overwintered should be mulched with straw to protect their roots, but some of the tender types must be dug up and overwintered indoors.

Herbs can be used fresh or preserved by drying or freezing, and the leaves and seeds are the parts most commonly used. The leaves should be harvested just before the flower buds open, and the seeds should be harvested when they turn brown.

Harvesting is best done early in the morning, just after the dew has evaporated. At least two sets of leaves should be left at the base of each stem to encourage the plant to continue growing.

Proper drying prolongs the storage life of herbs. If they are insufficiently dried, they will lose their color and taste, and eventually become moldy. The leaves can be dried by hanging the cut stalks upside down in any warm, dry, well ventilated area.

When they are thoroughly dry, they can be ground and stored in a glass or metal airtight container in a dark place. Seeds can be dried on screens one layer deep. When dry, they should be separated from the pods and sealed in containers and stored in a cool, dark place.

Additional information on herbs is contained in a federal publication entitled, Growing Savory Herbs (Agdex 283/20-1). It can be obtained from the Print Media Branch, Alberta Agriculture, 7000 - 113 St., Edmonton, Alta. T6H 5T6.

Suppressed emotions tighten chest muscles

By Linda Giroux

I have been studying at university, and was surprised at just how much yoga breathing techniques are being used.

In the complete breath, the diaphragm is moved down so that the tummy is pushed out. To get the feel of abdominal breathing first lie on your back with one hand below the lowest ribs. Breathe so that your hand is raised up with the breath, exhale, feeling your hand lower again. Continue to breathe, following the breath in and out.

Most of us use only the upper third to one-half of the lungs in our habitual breathing. This is partially due to restrictive clothing such as tight jeans and corsets, or the habit of pulling in the tummy. It may also be the result of holding back a desire to cry, or to express anger. As the desire is repressed, the chest is tightened up. After this becomes habitual, you can no longer breathe freely, or cry.

The complete breath can be done seated with the back straight, or standing. As you inhale and exhale, concentrate on the breath being drawn in and then released.

Once you have the feel of abdominal breathing, proceed to the victorious breath. Sit in any comfortable position with the back straight. Draw air in through both nostrils with a slow, continuous flow. Continue until the lungs feel comfortably full. Hold the breath comfortably for a few seconds, then let the air out slowly and smoothly until the lungs feel empty. This completes a round.

Beginners should take the same length of time for each part-inhalation, retention and exhalation should have a 1:1:1 ratio. For intermediates, the ratio may be 1:2:1 or 1:2:2, while for the advanced the retention time is extended to a ratio of 1:4:2.

A traditional claim for the victorious breath is that it cures asthma and hay fever, and that the person is not attacked by phlegm disease, nerve disease or indigestion.

Another interesting discovery about the importance of breathing techniques is that the ability to learn and retain what has been learned is at its peak during holding of the breath.

Prices of wheat expected to be decreased

World wheat prices are expected to remain generally weak during the 1983-84 crop year. Although they have recently shown minor strength, mainly due to the American wheat acreage reduction program, they are expected to decline by about $10 per tonne between now and July. After that they are expected to slowly improve into the winter of 1984.

According to Alberta Agriculture's grain marketing economist, Les Lyster, 1982-83 Canadian wheat exports, including products, are expected to reach 20.7 million tonnes, despite the extremely stiff competition that has been experienced in the export market.

This volume would be 2.2 million tonnes above the record 1981-82 level. However, carryover stocks at the end of the present crop year are expected to be approximately 11.2 million tonnes or 1.5 million tonnes higher than they were in July, 1982.

Lyster says that the March planting intentions survey indicates that Canadian farmers intend to plant 33.24 million acres to wheat this spring, which would be 6.8 per cent above the record 1982 acreage. Although the survey was taken prior to the time that the Canadian Wheat Board announced its initial payments, Lyster believes the estimate is reasonable.

Even though the 1983 acreage is expected to be up, yields are not likely to match the phenomenal 1982 level. Lyster points out that the estimated 1983 acreage, combined with the trend yield of 29.7 bushels per acre, would result in a wheat crop of 26.9 million tonnes or 2.5 per cent smaller than the record 1982 crop. Hence, Canada's 1983-84 wheat supplies are expected to be about 38.1 million tonnes or 0.5 million tonnes above 1982-83 supplies.

World wheat carryover stocks for 1982-83 are estimated to be 97 million tonnes, up substantially from the 1981-82 carryover of 83 million. Although world wheat production in the 1983-84 crop year is expected to decline from that of the previous crop year, 1983-84 supplies are again expected to be large. And world wheat trade and usage are expected to remain fairly flat during that period.

Powerhouse cancels education programs

Due to lack of interest, saturated interest and good weather, nine out of 29 spring programs scheduled by Drayton Valley's Powerhouse Further Education Council have been cancelled.

"We're discussing not running spring programs at all," programs co-ordinator Joan Duckett said.

She speculated advanced cake decorating, paper tole and other such programs were cancelled for several reasons.

"A lot of it, I think, was because we had three great days of weather," Duckett said. "It had rained all three of those days we would have had more registrations."

"It was the same way last year with 10 cancellations and 10 programs that ran."

Some of the government-funded courses filled right away but others did not reflect the interest expressed earlier.

Among other duties Duckett has to co-ordinate she also has the responsibility of co-ordinating the aerobics schedules.

There are needs to be served by the town and Powerhouse but the need has to be expressed and they have to be valid.

"We only allow adults 18 years old and up too. We do allow teens into classes at the discretion of the instructor."

"We've had quite a few requests for hair design and cutting but that was in the past. Maybe the new building at the school will fulfil that need."

Grants for these programs have been frozen at the 1982 level and the project receives eight dollars for delivery of every course. "The interest was higher in the past."

The fall programs are already being considered.

"The fall courses will be based on the amount of interest shown."

Walls should be clean

By Janice McGregor

Getting the wall ready is the important step which is the secret of successful application of wall coverings.

Different types of wall surfaces require different types of preparation, but one condition is common to all: wall covering cannot cling to grease.

For removing grease and other dirt build-up, walls should be thoroughly washed with soapy water and household ammonia. Because glossy or semi-glossy surfaces are too slippery for wallpaper to stick to, they should be washed with a solution of trisodium phosphate (TSP) to roughen the surface.

Smooth surfaces such as nail holes and cracks should be patched with spackling compound, sanded and covered with primer-sealer. Repairs and priming should be done before using TSP on the walls.

A plumb line is a simple way to make sure wallpaper is applied straight. It is only necessary to use it once on each wall, for the first strip. Although they may appear so, all walls are not straight, and it will become evident if wallpaper is hung crooked.

Wallpaper lengths should be cut at least four inches longer than the height of the wall. This will allow for trimming at baseboard and ceiling. Patterned wallpapers are carefully designed so that matching can be done so seams will not be obvious.

Matching the strips can be done on the wall or on a flat surface before cutting. Strips should be numbered in sequence and top and bottom marked to prevent mistakes in matching.

Most wallpaper is prepasted and after immersion in the waterbox is ready for hanging. Make sure the strip is wet on both sides. Once it is positioned on the wall, it can be moved around with reasonable care. While it is still wet, smooth it into place with a wet sponge in a downward and toward the edge motion.

Try ham soup

By Wendy Thomson

When I get down toward the bottom of the freezer, I'm always amazed at the things I find down there. Sometimes there's goodies that I've hidden for special occasions but more often there are things that nobody wants to eat anyhow.

A chunk of ham might have been termed a "goodie" when it was in its prime, but after 18 months in the freezer, it just didn't look that appetizing.

However, it made a great soup!

Ham Soup

Ingredients: 1 cup white (navy) beans; 4 cups cold water; 1 ham bone (or ham from bottom of freezer); 1 onion, chopped; 3 celery stalks with leaves, chopped; 2 medium carrots, chopped; 1 tsp. salt; ¼ tsp. pepper; ½ cup chopped tomato, fresh or canned.

Soak washed beans in the cold water overnight. Do not drain.

Combine everything in a large pot and simmer 1½ hours, then check to see if beans are soft. If not, cook longer.

This makes a good soup as is, or other ingredients can be added.

Later Cal and Jessie Bartlett showed slides of fish, flora and fauna of Alberta.

The ladies of the Wishing Well entertained at tea to honor Grace Cook, who is leaving to make her home in Edmonton.

Better oil self-sufficiency answers needed

By John Gorman

Crude oil self-sufficiency for Canada, Canadianization of the petroleum industry and other goals of the National Energy Program have always had the support of the Canadian Petroleum Association (CPA), but better ways to achieve these goals can be found.

This is the view of Dr. E.W. (Ted) Best, newly-elected chairman of the CPA board of governors in Calgary.

During the coming years, a major challenge for the CPA will be the development of a revised approach to Canada's oil and gas policy which will be acceptable to governments,- both federal and provincial, to the general public and which will put the petroleum industry back to work.

Best, a native of Windsor, Ont., and a gold medalist in geology and geography at the University of Western Ontario in 1949, sees enormous potential for the overall Canadian economy if the petroleum industry can realize its potential as a flourishing Canadian business.

The career of Best is an impressive story in itself as he has been active in most phases of the oil and gas exploration business leading to his appointment as president of BP Exploration Canada Limited, and just recently to the chairmanship of CPA.

He earned a Ph.D. in geology from the University of Wisconsin in 1953 and along with his work in developing the science of geology in the petroleum industry and the coal industry, he has been active in several professional and industrial organizations including membership in the International Geological Congress.

Best is very much at home with his feet up on the desk discussing what he believes to be the essential need of provincial and federal governments and the oil industry to work out solutions to existing problems which will bring mutual benefits to all parties.

The way it is now, government revenues are down, industry revenues are down, unemployment is up and the economy is in the doldrums.

"Canada has enormous petroleum potential," said Best at a recent news conference, "and we have an industry capable of developing our resources. The benefits of a strong, productive industry can be measured in terms of spin-off industrial activity, government revenues, jobs and the security of using only our own petroleum supplies. The opportunities are evident, the rewards from realising those opportunities are tremendous and delay is costly. I believe all Canadians will benefit if, during the year ahead we can get back on track and re-establish a strong petroleum industry."

Meeting discusses possible recreation area

By Dorothy Gerwien
696-2354

At a recent meeting in Breton, Shirley Cripps, M.L.A. discussed the possibility of a recreation area being developed on the east side of the Drayton Valley bridge on the North Saskatchewan River.

Seventeen people met in April to look over the site, to see where the recreation area would be situated.

The area will receive a park development grant. The Mini Parks Grant Program will provide funding for basic recreation facilities. A maximum of $100,000 will be made available from the Alberta government for the development of such facilities as parking, toilet facilities, water well, site furnishings and/or planning and design costs.

Completed work is to include an entrance sign which designates the name of the area.

Operating and maintenance funds will be made available on a yearly basis to a maximum of $20,000 per year.

Anyone interested in becoming involved in this volunteer development group should call Daylene Shaw. The County of Leduc will administer the funding.

There will be an informational meeting Tuesday, June 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the lunch study room of the Breton Elementary School for anyone interested in Boy Scouts aged 11 to 14; Cubs ages eight to 10 or Beavers ages five to seven. With enough interest the boys could start in September. Anyone interested should contact Linda Ambrose at 696-2168.

The Breton Farmers' Market will run every Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. until Aug. 27.

Gail Carson and Murray Postnikoff were married May 21.

The Buck Creek baseball teams are now in full swing with the men's fastball team playing every Monday and Wednesday evening at 7 p.m.

Gladys Nelson and son Gary are visiting friends and relatives in England. While there they will be staying with Gladys' sister in Liverpool and will be going to London to visit relatives and see the sights. They will also make a trip to Scotland where they will visit with Vera Simmers and her parents. Vera is at present on vacation there.

Gary will return home June 10 while Gladys will stay until July 22 so she can attend her nephew's wedding.

The women's fastball team plays Tuesdays at 7 p.m. with an occasional game on Sunday. The children's team ages eight to 10 play Sundays at 2 p.m. and the team aged 11 to 18 play every Monday at 5 p.m.

Buck Creek will hold its first annual sports day Saturday, June 18. Included in the day's events will be a parade, open draft horse pull, kids' pony rides, ball games and races. This will be followed by a barbecue supper and dance.

Those interested in entering the parade can do so by contacting Edwina Martens at 542-2663.

A Buck Creek Days organizational meeting will be held June 7 at 8 p.m. at the Buck Creek Hall.

The Bus to Swim program for the Buck Creek area will be held Aug. 15 to Aug. 26 at the Drayton Valley pool. Contact person is Pam Williams at 543-4841.

Buck Creek will hold a travelling day camp again this year with times and dates to be announced later.

The travelling day camp at Funnell will be held Aug. 8 to Aug. 12. Anyone interested in having their child attend this camp should contact Lois Dyck at 696-2304.

A film festival featuring an evening of wildlife and nature films will be held Thursday, June 30 from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Warburg Elementary School Auditorium.

Woman wins Tomahawk run

By Joe Poirier

A Stony Plain woman has won the Fifth Annual Tomahawk Run.

Maureen Colban rode Black Bath, owned by Linda Reidlinger, 55 miles in four hours and three minutes to earn the first place trophy, a hat and a scroll listing the race statistics.

"It really wasn't a hard trail at all," Colban said. "It was really quite easy, easier than last year."

Colban finished third in the 1982 race and says it has only been two years that she's been riding competitively.

"It was exciting. The whole weekend was a real good time."

"The landowners were very co-operative for the race," Bill Reidlinger, one of the organizers, said. "We had 16 entrants with some from as far away as Lac La Biche."

Herb Strech and Bob Burke of the Spruce Grove Veterinary Clinic and Karen Josephson from the Rocky Rapids Veterinary Clinic offered their professional skills.

The horses' heart beats were checked periodically by the veterinarians to make sure they were healthy. At certain stages of the race they were rested until their heart beats reached a lower and acceptable level before they were allowed to continue.

Evergreen rodeo

Rodeo offers eight events

Saddle bronc riding and steer wrestling are just two of the eight events offered at this year's 14th Annual Evergreen Rodeo.

The rodeo will start at 1 p.m. at Lions West Valley Park on both Saturday and Sunday. Admission price for the rodeo events is $5 for adults, $3 for children and senior citizens, while children six and under get in free, said Ritchie Woods, chairman of the rodeo committee for the Lions Club.

Supplying the stock, announcers, timers, judges, clowns and bull fighter is Block Brothers Rodeo Stock.

All entries are being handled by the Foothills Cowboy Association, said Woods.

The pony chariot and chuckwagon races will run Saturday and Sunday starting at 7 p.m. These races are being organized by the Highway 43 Club. Admission to get into the evening races is $4 for adults and $2.50 for children and senior citizens. Like the rodeo, children six and under get in free.

The midway will be bigger this year, said Woods. On Friday a special blue colored wrist ticket may be purchased which will allow the bearer all the rides he or she may want to take.

The midway operates from 5 to 10 p.m. Friday, 1 to 10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

As a special courtesy, Crown Amusements, operators of the midway, are throwing a fireworks display Friday night at 10 p.m.
